

How to play

Pai Gow Poker is a combination of elements from the ancient Chinese game of Pai Gow and the American game poker. A traditional deck of 52 playing cards is used, plus one joker. The joker is used as an ace, or to complete a straight, flush, straight flush or royal flush.

HOW TO PLAY

The game begins with a random generated number which determines which player receives the first hand. Each player places their bets and then receives seven cards, in which a five card hand (high hand) and a two card hand (low hand) are created. Both hands must be higher than the house hands to win. If only one of the hands is higher, it is a push. If both hands are lower, the player loses.

All winning wagers are paid even-money minus a 5% commission that the house collects.

RULES TO REMEMBER

- Once the dealer exposes the house hand, the players cannot touch theirs.
- Players are not allowed to show their hands or talk to other players about their hands before all cards are exposed.
- Any players' hand that is set incorrectly (e.g., the two-card low hand ranks higher than the five-card high hand, or player puts three cards in low-hand and four cards in high-hand) is considered a foul hand and an automatic loss to the player.
- The house hand must be set under house hand rules.
- House hand rules (house ways) will be posted at the table.
- Only English may be spoken while cards are in play.

Malfunction of the shuffle machine voids all hands.

Fortune Pai Gow Poker Progressive

Fortune Pai Gow Poker progressive adds a twist to Fortune Pai Gow Poker by giving you an opportunity to win all – or part – of a large, incrementing jackpot. In addition to the progressive wager, the game also features head-to-head play against the dealer, a Fortune Bonus and possible envy bonuses.

How To Play

You can make the optional Fortune bet as well as the progressive bet in addition to your standard pai gow poker bet. The dealer will then give you seven cards. The Fortune and progressive bets use all seven cards to determine winning hands.

Your progressive bet wins per the posted pay table, the top hands award all, or part, of the progressive meter.

If your Fortune bet qualifies for payouts, the dealer pays you according to the posted pay table. The top seven hands trigger envy bonuses. If any player at the table hits one of these hands, all players who made at least a $5 Fortune bet wins. You cannot win envy bonuses on your hand or the dealer's hand.
